

MARLBOROUGH COURT

GREEN CLOSE, BROOKMANS PARK
HERTFORDSHIRE AL9 7ST

A select development of three bedroom houses together with one & two bedroom apartments

MARLBOROUGH COURT

Welcome to Marlborough Court – an exclusive new collection of 8 exceptional three bedroom houses and 4 one & two bedroom luxury apartments – planned, designed and created by the specialists at Magnacrest.

Brookmans Park is steeped in history with many old monuments and buildings still standing today.

Brookmans Park is a village in North Mymms, Hertfordshire, well known for its varied and interesting local history, including an ancient historic estate that used to exist within its boundaries. In 1786 the Gausson family arrived and created the estate that led to the development of the village of Brookmans Park. Robert Gausson took over Brookmans Manor in 1816 and he expanded the estate creating many jobs.

BROOKMANS PARK HISTORY

In 1891 the house burnt down due to decorators at the time using a newly invented tool called a 'Blow Lamp' and parts of the estate were sold off to cut costs. The stable block however, survived and was converted into the family home and later became the club house for Brookmans Park Golf Club.

In 1926 the National Railway arrived with a station being built at Brookmans Park and then in 1930 the BBC built their very first transmitter here. A well known local landmark visible from much of Brookmans Park is the Folly Arch, which lies between Brookmans Park and Potters Bar, originally it marked one of the entrances to the Gobions estate. The remains of a track can still be seen today in the fields between Folly Arch and Gobions Wood. The Gobions Estate was an ancient and private estate which flourished on merchant wealth near the village of Brookmans Park from the 14th to the 18th centuries. The estates' lands now serve the community as a nature reserve and open space.

ENVIRONMENTAL COMMITMENT

That's why at Magnacrest we make every effort to not only conform to, but seek to exceed, all the guidelines for the responsible development of new properties throughout every stage of the design, planning and construction of your new home.

From the outset, we follow an enhanced ecology philosophy with rigorous ecological assessments of our site prior to our development to ensure we improve the habitat as a result of our work. This informs our planting policies and other habitat enhancements to attract more species than before we started.

Through every aspect of our building process we are fully compliant with the high standards set in the new code for sustainable homes. Our commitment to this delivers sustainable drainage applications to capture and re-use rainwater where possible and minimise run-off.

We only use energy efficient system boilers and hot water storage systems, while our appliances are high specification yet highly responsible. All fridges and freezers are A+ energy efficiency rated, washing machines and dryers at least A rated and all washer dryers B rated.

We embrace new technologies and innovations to ensure we provide homes that balance luxury and indulgence with responsibility. All apartments have energy monitors to provide up to the minute information of the energy use, whilst the use of photovoltaic cells capture the sun's energy and convert it to electricity to further contribute to the overall efficiency of Marlborough Court.

Finally, we embrace all the principles of the Lifetime Homes standard which guides inclusivity, accessibility, adaptability, sustainability and good value to achieve a High Lifetime Homes rating. This standard is widely respected for ensuring the comfort and convenience of new homes as well as it's ability to support the changing needs of individuals and families at different stages of life.
